When a contractor came to our school to build a wall in a classroom, he became very concerned about our wiring. He had an electrician bring power to the wall that he built and the electrician was also very concerned about our electrical system. They both feel there are legitimate safety concerns and feel our wiring is hazardous. They recommended we do a study of our school's electrical system to determine the extent of the concerns. The study will cost approximately $1500.

Project Category: Electrical

The rewiring is a health and safety concern for the school. It is obvious we don't have funding in our building renewal to cover the cost of this project. After speaking with insurance, they stated this was not due to any specific cause and could not be claimed with insurance.
